WOMEN SUFFER AS P. I. SOLONS WRANGLE

No Funds for Pensionless Pensioners; Ex-Teacher Stranded in Florida

Providence, June 26.—While the deadlock in the Rhode Island Senate gives every indication of continuing indefinitely, the suffering caused by the complete tieing up of State funds is daily growing more acute.

The aged school teachers of the state who are pensioned under the state laws are among those that are suffering actual want, as a result of the way between the Republican and Democratic factions.

One retired teacher, a woman, is stranded in Florida without funds to reach her home in Wickford, R. I. The pension fund was exhausted months ago and a check for $100, which was due her, has not been paid.

The Wickford school teacher went to Florida in the winter, intending to return early in the spring. When her pension check was suddenly stopped she found herself without funds. She is practically penniless in the South. Her case is only typical of dozens of others.

With the wives of the Republican Senators joining them in their "exile" at Rutland, Mass., and the Democratic minority of the Senate meeting each day at Providence and adjourning until the following day, the six-month deadlock has all but throttled the State government.

Until either the Democratic minority or the Republican absentee Senators decide on some hold strategy, no chance in the situation is anticipated.

The Senate met, and after a session which lasted about a minute adjourned until 1 o'clock today.

It is generally understood that the expense of the Republican senators at Rutland are being paid by the Central Republican State Committee.

Wives of other Senators are being paid from the party strong box but not yet been divulged.

The Senators at Rutland are enjoying their absence from the state as a rare "lark." The son spent the day boating playing tennis, basketball and swimming. With the arrival of the women folk bridge parties have been organized to pass the long hours of the evening.

Mrs. William Drew and Mrs. A. A. Sherman are among the women that have already arrived at Rutland while more are expected today.

MAYO WINS DELAY ON TRIP TO JAIL
 New York, June 26.—A stay of proceedings until today was granted to Virginia St. Julian Mayo, wealthy motor radiator manufacturer of New Haven, when he appeared before Supreme Court Justice Mahoney to surrender, following the withholding of his conviction for larceny by the appellate division last week.

His attorney, Ludlow S. Fowler, told the court that Mayo would appear for a certificate of reinstatement, in order to carry his case to the Court of Appeals.

"EXILES" SMILE

But then the fire came back, reinforced by two more. They tackled Tony anew, determined to slam the janitor in a cell and lock him up for the humor of it. Tony was confined in the fight by mere numbers. He could count six, but his coach's boys track of the seventh.

Tony remained locked up until Fred Skillings, capital not, the victim, needed him for a chore. Then the skipper went down and released the janitor.

POLICE JANITOR IS LOCKED IN CELL AS JOKE

When it comes to numbers, Tough Tony, janitor of the City Hall Avenue police station, has no trou. He is all-up to seven. Hitherto he has won one, three, seven, even, when the numbers have to do with jolly young police fellows who will have their bit of fun.

At seven, however, the limit of Tony's understanding of policemen is reached. But take five policemen, now. Tony, in a furious battle, imposed upon such a number of cops that he had no wish to be locked up in a cell for the lulling of cupidity of the policemen, trained in fight.

SCHOOL PHONES CUT OUT FOR SUMMER

Springfield, June 26.—Telephone lines in many of the schools of this section will be disconnected during the summer because of the costly habit of certain citizens who sneak into the buildings and get phone service free to themselves at the expense of the city. Not infrequently these people make long distance calls and the municipality foots the bill.

RUNAWAY ICE HORSES HALTED BY DRIVER

When an automobile crashed into the rear of an ice team of the Fresh Pond Ice Company at Belmont street and Hillside avenue, Belmont, the horses became frightened and ran away. The driver of the ice team drove the horses up an embankment not far from the scene of the crash and brought them to a halt.

FIFTH ARREST IN MURDER OF GIRL

Contractor Held as One of the Party With Divorcee Before Death

Left the automobile to "settle" it the instant, however, that they did not come to blows, but after walking along the road, a short distance, decided not to fight.

The Hutton girl says she returned to the automobile. The other girl refused to ride in the car and was left along the road. That, according to Miss Hutton, is the last seen of the Mason girl alive.

At least one man who was in the automobile has told the authorities that the girls actually came together in a personal encounter.

The arrest of Roland Brideon, a contractor, the fourth male member of the automobile party in which the slain girl participated, was one of the day's important developments.

The four men and the Hutton girl, all being held without bail, are being arraigned today on the charge of first degree murder.

The Hutton girl, although she

Tired of sports and reading, Senator Samuel Robinson of Rhode Island left his job at milking. The hand of Republican Senators, who have fled Rhode Island because of the filibuster started by the Democrats last January to force passage of the constitutional convention referendum bill today reiterated their determination to remain away all summer of necessary.

Acceding to the Hutton girl, the four men and the two girls started out to see a factory fire, but instead of going to the fire, they drove to the Lins House on the Canadian border, where there was a wild night of revelry, with every-one drinking constantly.

On the return trip the two girls quarreled over a previous party on which they had been and when just outside Groveton the car was stopped and the two girls left the machine.

The Hutton girl insists she walked down the road with her car and they agreed not to fight. The Hutton girl, according to her own story, returned to the car while the other girl walked toward Groveton.

The point where the car was stopped is near the mill pond in which the slain girl's body was found. It is believed the girl was struck over the head and the body either rolled down an embankment or was thrown into the pond.

TO DRAIN POND.
 According to the male members of the party there was a quart bottle of whiskey in the rear of the machine when the party left the Canadian border. This bottle disappeared and it is believed that the bottle may have been the weapon with which the Mason girl was struck over the head.

When the girl's body was found floating on the surface of the pond some of her clothing was missing. The pond is being drained today in an effort to find this clothing.

In the pocket of the dead girl's coat was found one penny and a wedding ring.

The men who are held in connection with the girl's death in addition to Brideon, the contractor, are Edgar Boutin, Edmond Couette and George Tanguay. If the girl is charged with murder it is likely she will face a similar charge as accomplices.

The stories told by the four men and one woman are so conflicting that the authorities will require another hearing to establish the truth of many of the statements. A close check of the movement of the party from the time they left Berlin is going to the Lins House has been started.

EDUCATOR LIKES PURITANS TO BOLSHEVISTS

PURE DEMOCRACY FUTILE, HARRY F. ATWOOD SAYS

Providence, R. I., June 26.—Harry F. Atwood of Chicago, prominent educator, speaking at the commencement exercises of Rhode Island College of Education, denounced the Pilgrims and others who first settled this country as Bolshevists.

"The ancestors of this blooded Americans, the men and women puritans of the Mayflower and the little ships that subsequently brought Puritans, Pilgrims, Huguenots and Netherlands to America, were made up of just such a mob as exists in Russia today," he said.

Atwood announced himself as being against any form of a pure democracy wherein the people speak and act directly. "Every nation that has tried it," he declared to the 152 young men and women who received diplomas and degrees from the college of education, "has had a stroke of paralysis."

Continuing, he said:

"Those who came to this country in the beginning were just such a mob as exists in Russia today. After chaos, fratricide, experiment and failure for many years they drew a constitution which absolutely brought order out of chaos. What was it that these men did to bring about what has been called the greatest democracy which has ever come out of the human mind?"

"They established a strictly representative form of government. It hasn't meant very much to the present generation. I am more fearful of Democracy than of any other thing in government. Whenever it has been experimented with it has brought about just such conditions as exist in Russia today."

ERA OF DEMAGOGUES.

"When the Constitution was written, the men who knew most about it were carefully plotted. They knew what they were about. They established a republic—a strictly representative form of government."

What was it that these men did to bring about what has been called the greatest democracy which has ever come out of the human mind?"

2D ATTEMPT- IS ANCIENTS' SHIP MADE TO BURN HIT BY BOLT SCHOOL IN STORM

Firebombs again tried to burn down the Charles Sumner School, Ashland street, West Roxbury, early today. The first attempt was made on Saturday last.

A resident of the neighborhood was smoking coming from the third floor of the school and gave the alarm. Damage of about $100 was caused.

Pulley and fire officials were convinced that the fire was incendiary when they discovered in the class room where the fire started a pile of rubbish that had apparently been heaped up and ignited.

The police believe the school firebombs are responsible for about a dozen fires in the section within the past few weeks.

The Saturday fire started in the same section of the third floor and about the same time, shortly after midnight.

State fire officials are expected to take a hand in investigation. In one of the recent fires in the district the firebombs had a hole in the building, poured kerosene through to the inside, and then plugged up the holes with sand.

INQUEST HELD IN DEATH OF NURSE

Reason for Suicide Not Developed in Case of Miss Locasolo

An inquest into the death of Miss Lila Locasolo, nursing nurse, who committed suicide on the porch of Dr. Ernest W. Small of Belmont, was held by Judge Wolcott in East Cambridge Court today.

Nothing new was revealed as to the girl's reasons for taking her life with poison.

Dr. Small, the first witness, told how he found the girl in his garage on returning from a ride with his wife and Dr. Conrad Todd. He said the girl pointed a revolver at him, and was declared by Dr. Todd, Dr. Small and Dr. Conrad Todd, he said he was then taken to his office with Dr. Todd and attempted to reach his lawyer by telephone. He said he also tried to get the police.

Dr. Todd testified to much the same statements, and was followed by Dr. Thomas Dwyer of Somerville, acting official examiner, who said Miss Locasolo was of nervous sublimity. Dr. Todd also testified that the girl had repeatedly threatened to commit suicide and that she, Dr. Todd, had tried to have her sent to a sanatorium.

COAKLEY HOPED FOR EARLY END TO TRIAL

Witness Says Defendant Was Eager to Attend Democratic Convention in New York

Daniel St. Coakley intended finishing up quickly the alleged conspiracy case in which he and William J. Conway are defendants, and getting to the Democratic convention to vote for Governor Al Smith.

"A little bird" told Harry E. Levenson this, he confided to Lowell A. Mayberry, Boston lawyer, the latter testified today in the case in East Cambridge Superior Court.

Levenson also declared in their conversation that John P. Feeney, present senior Coakley counsel, had "fallen down flat" in the case.

Levenson A. Mayberry, who contradicted Assistant District Attorney Bushnell and Harry E. Levenson on the witness stand, was subjected to further cross-examination today by Bushnell.

Q—Are recalled leaders of the bar opposed to the prosecution of the so-called blackmail case by Harding and O'Brien because certain lawyers are defendants? (Replied.)

Q—Are you opposed to the prosecution of the blackmail case because members of the bar and former lawyers are involved? (Replied.)

Mayberry testified that he had an office in the same building with Coakley for ten or twelve years, but that he never had any dealings with Coakley. Witness admitted he did work for Simon Swig in the "Treasure Trust" case, but had learned only from the newspapers that Coakley was a stockholder.

TALK WITH LEVENSON. Witness never recalled referring to Coakley as "Dan."

Q—Did you ever have a conversation with Levenson at which you said you regretted that lawyers were involved in these investigations?

A—Yes. In the courtroom when I was waiting to be called, I had a general conversation with Levenson, who sat next to me. I told him I felt badly over the publicity concerning members of the bar generally and hoped that some day all the slander would be removed and that the profession would be placed on its old standards of respectability.

Levenson told me he thought Feeney was a good friend of mine and told him he was until Mr. Feeney told me he would be damned if he would cause me. Levenson called attention to the fact that Simon Swig had entered the court room and that the prosecution was not in pending against Swig.

He told me he was a good friend of the Swig family and I told him I was sorry for Swig. Levenson said that then Swig, who was a close friend of his, had expressed regret over what he (Levenson) had done, because Coakley was a good friend of his. Levenson also remarked that he was much disappointed in Feeney in handling this case, as he considered that Feeney had fallen down flat. (Laughter.) He said Feeney didn't seem to have the same pep and punch.

WOULD BE "LAST WITNESS." Feeney—Because I was getting old, I guess.

Mayberry resumed—Levenson told me I was to be the last witness for the defense. I asked him if that meant I was to be a hero or a villain. He said both. He said, "I know you're going to be the last witness because a little bird had told me."

Bushnell—He didn't say a canary, did he?

Mayberry—No, just a little bird. We discussed the Democratic convention and who the candidates were going to be. Levenson told me that he happened to know that Coakley had a room engaged in the Hotel Belmont, in New York, and that he was going to finish up there in order to go over there and vote as a delegate for Al Smith.

MELLON TAKES STAND FOR MEANS

Treasury Head is Called as a Witness for Defence at the Boozie Conspiracy Trial

New York, June 25.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today was called as a witness for the defense at the trial of Gaston B. Means, former special agent of the Department of Justice, and his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnack, charged with violation of the Prohibition Laws.

Hiram C. Todd, special deputy Attorney General, asked Judge Wolcott to restrict the Secretary's testimony to topics pertaining to the subject of the indictment.

The court upheld objections to questions put by Thomas R. Feider, Means' attorney, as to the alleged removal from the Overholt distillery in Pittsburgh of 2,500 cases and 42-ton saloons of whiskey on forced permits obtained by a man named Goodman.

Feider then asked the Secretary whether these permits had been found in the Mellon National Bank in Pittsburgh as collateral for a loan to Goodman. This question, also, was barred.

Secretary Mellon testified that he had an interest in the Overholt distillery.

Mr. Mellon said he had talked with J. W. Hubbard of New Jersey about the liquor transaction which caused the indictment of Means. He said Hubbard told him he had paid money to a friend for release of whiskey, but that he had got neither the whiskey nor the money.

Mr. Mellon related a visit that he had made to a Washington attorney and former special agent of the Department of Justice, paid to him, representing himself as counsel for the Women's Club Government Association and asking Mr. Mellon to assist him in investigating prohibition affairs. Mr. Mellon said he told the attorney that he would refer the question to Mr. Blair, but that Blair did not want to discuss it with him.

PLATFORM WAKERS SPLIT ON KLAN AND LEAGUE OF DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES QUITTING THE GARDEN

CONVENTION EXPECTED TO TAKE UP FIGHT

New York, June 26.—A tentative draft of the Democratic platform, containing alternative proposals on the Ku Klux Klan and the League of Nations, was submitted today to the platform sub-committee of eleven.

It is expected the committee will be split and the fight will go to the convention.

It was prepared by Chairman James E. Chandler, and by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, on the basis of discussions which continued before the subcommittee until an early hour this morning. Immediately after the subcommittee assembled it summoned Owen D. Young of New York for a brief discussion of his plank proposing American cooperation with the other nations through the league of nations or other associations, excluding the present administration, for its foreign policy and denouncing the use of unofficial observers abroad.

William Jennings Bryan presided in the absence of Chairman Chandler, who, with Senator Pittman, had remained up all night whipping the platform draft into shape. Mr. Bryan was summoned from the committee room by a spokesman for William G. McAdoo, with whom he conferred freely.

TO CONVENTION TOMORROW

The subcommittee hoped to conclude its work before night and it was the plan to present the finished draft to the entire platform committee late in the day. It was the hope to have the platform ready for consideration by the convention tomorrow.

STEVENSON'S SON TO NAME HOUSTON

New York, June 26.—(Lat.) Houston of Texas and Missouri, former Secretary of Agriculture, today's action in New York City.

He had his presented as a candidate for the Democratic nomination at the National convention by Lewis G. Stevenson, son of the late Adlai E. Stevenson, Vice-President in the second Roosevelt administration. Houston is said to have been the late President Wilson's choice for the nomination this year.

It was understood that Rabbi Wise was selected, in the first place, because he represented geographically the congested East Side of New York city, and secondly because of his noted ability as an orator.

SCORE FACE ARREST FOR CONVENTION RUM

New York, June 26.—A score of New Yorkers, several of whom are said to be prominent and one of considerable political prestige, were to be arrested today on warrants charging them with the ownership of $250,000 worth of liquor sent here, Federal prohibition agents asserted.

The liquor was taken from raids and, according to Federal Agent Sol Grid, were intended to be used for the Democratic convention.

BOSTON MAN LEADS PRAYER

A moment later Walsh returned to the attack. "East side, West Side, All Around the Town," an ancient glow club to the chair music best efforts, and then they wound up with three cheers for Smith and took their seats.

A moment later the hall was again and William W. Foster, C. S. R. of the Board of Layreaders, Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, was presented to the delegates and operators to stand and sing with him in response to the Lord's Prayer.

Resumption of the calling of the roll for nominations for President then was in order, and Miss Mary Kennedy of the Bronx, vice-chairman of the convention, was introduced by Senator Walsh.

She made a short speech thanking the delegates for the honor and predicting that the women of the nation would help to save the life of Democratic victory in November. She was dressed in a plumed white gown trimmed in red.

WOMAN IN CHARGE

The convention gave her a cheer when she rose to speak and repeatedly interrupted her with applause. Then Senator Walsh thrust over the table to Miss Kennedy and for the first time in history a national convention was in the guiding hand of a woman. She directed the secretary to continue the roll call.

Colorado, the first on the list, did not respond at first, but a moment later Governor W. E. Sweet answered on the platform. He approved the nomination of William G. McAdoo on behalf of his state.

A previous plan to place Mr. Sweet's name formally before the convention and give him the State's vote for the first two or three ballots, before going to McAdoo, apparently had been abandoned.

There were several minutes of cheering when the name of McAdoo was pronounced by Governor Sweet, and several delegates undertook to parade around the hall, but the aides were so busy crowd control that they had difficulty in marching.

CRISIS OF '01

The McAdoo people manifestly had stolen a march on the partisans of Smith by injecting the name of the former Treasury Secretary into the proceedings at an unexpected point. It was only a short parade, and it was punctuated throughout by cries of "all off, all off."

When Governor Sweet, with his speech the galleries again took a hand in the proceedings and he had to stop while Senator Walsh again went over the gavel and sought to restore order.

"All off, all off," flew the shouts of the Smith men from gallery to gallery in a great growing chorus. Senator Walsh finally got the audience quiet, and when he said he hoped the guests in the gallery would courteously treat all of those who appeared on the platform, the New York delegation took the lead in the applause from the floor.

When the speech ended the McAdoo people went into another manifestation of approval. They shouted their support on the platform just back of the speaker's stand and sought to put on another demonstration, but the minute was short lived.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS

In a minute the hall was quieted again and the secretary called the name of Roosevelt. That name added to New York, and the Smith platformers took issue with a blast that rocked the silent garden.

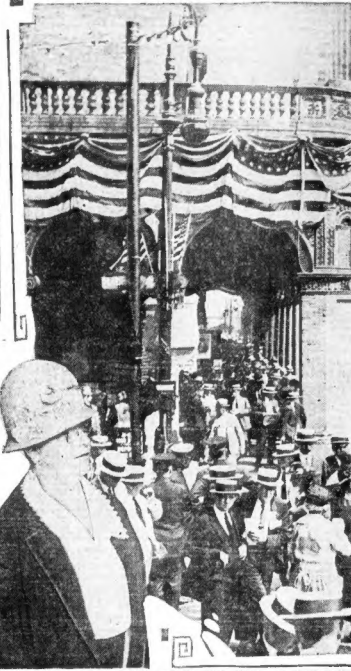

Franklin D. Roosevelt, responding to the New York, had been given a place on the platform just back of the chairman and he had to be lifted from his seat by the delegates to his nomination speech for Smith.

On entrance he made his way forward to the speaker's stand and stood there supporting himself by leaning forward over the pulpit-like table that had been placed there for him.

It was five minutes before the cheering stopped and he began his speech. The demonstration came from both floor and galleries, and it was confined to those who are in sympathy with the candidacy of Governor Smith.

There was in it the touch of a personal tribute to the man who had fought and lost with James M. Cox in 1920 and who for years had been a laborer in the Democratic cause.

'Bob' Dinsmore 'Hero' of Bay Staters at Convention

By JO SWERLING

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 26 (Ringside).—"Battling" McAdoo has already weighed in and when the gong sounds in a few minutes "Kid" Smith will enter the ring, toss off his bathrobe and the ticket-holders will see the show of their lives.

A battle to the finish that'll make the Republican vice-presidential bout at Cleveland a mere preliminary by comparison, is soon to be staged.

The New England "hero" of the hectic demonstration for McAdoo, probably won't figure in the official record of the convention. That "hero" is "Fighting Boy" Dinsmore, Representative from East Boston.

It happened when the forty-minute demonstration for McAdoo got under way. The standard of California started around the hall, then Texas and other States started to line up. Just when the noisy parade was beginning to gain strength, there was a disturbance in the Massachusetts delegation.

There are three McAdoo delegates in the Bay State bunch—two men and a woman. The two McAdoo men started to grab the standard with intent to join the parade. It was at this point that "Fighting Boy" took a hand.

"Good enough, but, oh, boy, I wish I could get up on that platform and say what I think about that bunch."

Despite pleadings which lasted until midnight, Representative Susan W. Fitzgerald of the Massachusetts delegation took her seat in the McAdoo line at the last.

Walter Walsh of Provincetown was one of the New England delegates who trekked to the Greenwich Village haunts. Out of deference to his fellow New Englander, Eugene O'Neill, he went to see O'Neill's play, "All God's Children Have Niners," and when he came back to his hotel said: "This K. K. K. thing—just can't even keep it out of the theatre these days."

This convention has a sentimental value for Agnes Blood of Somersetville. She has been married. Nobody knew that she had acquired a husband, until she filed papers for Agnes Blood O'Brien.

Here comes stern-faced Chairman Walsh with a new gavel. He broke two during the anti-Klan and McAdoo demonstrations. How many will he have to break today?

No effort was made to lift the standards of Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, or Vermont.

Here's the picture of resistance of Democratic meek as some folks see it. Also the Bay State and candy. He's from California, but not a native son, having gone there of his own free will. Now he wants to get out and move to Washington. Apparently the State's will. It is a William G. McAdoo.

DANGER SEEN FOR BRAIN IN KLAN CLOUD

Predicts National Disorder if Anti-Klux Plank Prevails in Platform

By WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

New York, June 26.—The convention is approaching the higher levels. By a rule adopted here and it was at Baltimore in 1912, the nomination for President is made before the reporting of the platform—unless of course the nomination is postponed until after the platform is ready.

At Baltimore the committee decided to prepare the platform and then withhold it until after the nomination of the President in order that the committee might have the benefit of the emotional episode that date's advice before final action was taken. The change in the rule was due to the fact that in W. J. Bryan 1904, the Democratic nominee charged the platform in program had announced his views on one subject which the convention had refused to mention in the platform.

Albany comes first on the roll of States and as a consequence Mr. Underwood's name was proposed. The nominating speech will never be fairly considered on its merits because of a sensational episode that overshadowed the rhetoric and even the candidate.

Mr. Underwood's campaign has been carried on largely on an anti-Klux Klan platform. His literature announces that he will enforce prohibition, but naturally no allusion is made to his wet record in the Senate.

He opposed the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment by the State of Alabama only to find two-thirds of the legislature against him. He also voted against the anti-Bee bill which passed Congress by a two-thirds vote, the Democrats, as well as the Republicans voted two to one for it.

Neither has emphasis been placed upon his conservatism—the quality that gives him such strength. His early career was devoted to exploit the religious issue, and it was quite natural that the speech should contain a denunciation of the Klan—his own religious views were in his campaign.

A demonstration began which lasted for several minutes. One of the newspapers estimates it at a quarter of an hour during which several right fights occurred. The forecast of these was in the State of Colorado.

1,000 MARINES READY TO QUIT SANTO DOMINGO

Four Transports Assigned to Take Evacuating Forces to the United States

Washington, June 25.—Plans for the evacuation of the Dominican Republic by the United States marines, who have been stationed there for almost seven years, were completed with the assignment of the naval transports Henderson, Kittery, Beaufort and Jason to the task of removing the 1,000 men now on the island.

Under a program arranged with the State Department, the Navy has engaged to begin the evacuation "as soon as possible after July 10" and to complete it as rapidly as possible. The present schedule calls for the last shipment of material to leave August 14.

The Beaufort was scheduled to reach Santo Domingo to take aboard the first detachment of marines. About 400 men are to be transferred to San Diego, California, 200 to Guantanamo and the remainder to Quantico, Virginia.

SALEM GIRL IN THREE SUICIDE ATTEMPTS

Twice Tries to Kill Self at Hospital; Is Sent to Danvers

Salem, June 25.—Following an unsuccessful attempt to end her life by asphyxiation, Miss Marion Jackson, aged 27, made two additional attempts at suicide following her removal to the Salem hospital.

A few minutes after physicians decided the girl was mentally unbalanced and should be removed to Danvers, she leaped from her bed and tried to hurl herself from a third floor window of the hospital. A nurse prevented the girl from making the attempt.

The patient was then ordered by removed to Danvers.

Sunday Movies Would Lessen Crime, Says Newark Mayor

Asbury Park, N. J. June 25.—Sunday motion pictures are "a moral asset to any community," Mayor Brudenbach, of Newark, told delegates to the convention of the New Jersey motion picture owners here.

He declared there would be less crime in cities if theaters were allowed to remain open on Sundays, thus affording diversion to those who now seek recreation in other ways.

Repeal of the "Blue Laws" was urged before the delegates by Mayor Hetrick of Asbury Park.

FIVE BURNED BY EXPLOSION IN MANHOLE

Flames Shot High in Air by Electric Switch in Woburn

Woburn, June 24.—With a roar that could be heard for blocks, a pillar of fire shot 30 feet in the air from an electric light manhole at Main and Campbell streets when workmen of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company threw a switch in the manhole.

Five employees of the company were slightly burned and many cables and much apparatus were destroyed.

After the storm had put out lights in the Woburn Theatre and the business district, a trouble crew was sent out. Alfred McDonald clambered into the manhole and tied a rope about the handle of the main switch. Then he climbed out, and the switch was thrown by means of the rope. As the connection was made the flames shot high in the air.

McDonald, who was nearest, was burned about the face. The others were singed about the head, losing eyebrows and eyelashes. McDonald was thrown 25 feet, landing on a concrete driveway. All were hurt.

Inside, the manhole was a wreck. A transformer weighing 1,500 pounds was torn from the wall and completely destroyed.

It wouldn't have done any good to bring out "just another loaf"

There are a number of good loaves of bread. We tested our new loaf against them all because it wouldn't have been worth while to bring out "just another loaf of bread." We would have had the trouble of making it and the cost of introducing it. And it would have been just one more loaf.

Yet what we have done is a very simple thing. We have taken an old recipe of Robert Boyd Ward's—founder of this Company—a recipe that represents what he thought a loaf of bread should be. We have done what he would have done—made it richer and still more nourishing—for he led the way in the use of milk, sugar and shortening in bread.

The result is your new loaf. It makes good substantial sandwiches. It makes delicious toast. It's wholesome, nourishing food for children and tastes so good that they like it!

Before we announced your new loaf publicly, we made some real tests. We began with our own employees. They preferred it to all of our other loaves. Next we secured the leading loaves of bread and made platefuls of samples of each kind of bread, including the new loaf. We gave each plate a number and then asked groups of women to taste the samples. No woman knew what loaves she was testing; each voted for the sample she preferred. Nine out of every ten voted this new loaf first place.

But the best thing is to try it yourself and see how you like it. After you have tried it, please write us what you think of your new loaf—which we have named "Ward's Fine Bread."

We bake bread to please you. We can only tell how well we have pleased you by what you say about our bread.

into roaring approval. They were mistaken. Roosevelt means to tell us that Smith supports every Constitutional amendment.

When Roosevelt refers to the Harding election, when Smith was for Governor, and he, Roosevelt, ran for Vice-President, he was not for Governor. "But in this State one million more votes than I did, and I take my hat off to you."

That pleases the Smith boys and when they are pleased you know it. These words "atrocious" were given for any candidate for Governor. But wait until Smith's name comes, then you'll hear something.

WHEN Roosevelt says that for Smith if given the chance, just as New York voted, his four faithful ladies from Missouri and many others press their lips together and shake their heads. Well, we'll see.

ROOSEVELT quotes Woodrow Wilson as follows: "The great virtue of America does not come from the university; it comes in a murmur from the hills and the words from the farms, the factories, the mills, rolling on and gaining volume until it comes to us from the homes of the common people."

That's pretty and the "murmur" that comes from Al Smith gate crashers in the galleries would be something new in murmur to Wilson. If this picture hanging on there could hear, in all his politics Woodrow Wilson never heard such a murmur.

MR. ROOSEVELT says the people await a man who will return America to the "fold of decency." That seems not quite so suit as it is. The delegates just in front of him. They evidently have a notion that America's "decency" is a pen on Al Smith entirely.

The faith that all citizens are equal before the law brings applause. It is taken to mean denunciation of religious prejudice.

ONE more paragraph or two and you, the crowd, will get Al Smith's name. Now it is coming. This warlike whose record shows him invincible in a dozen of rights and an attack on wrong; this man, beloved by all, treated by all, respected by all; this man who has admitted to an overwhelming victory this morning—this man of destiny whom our state proudly dedicates to the nation—our own Alfred E. Smith. Now they are off. And Al Smith you knew it was coming it is more than you expected. The Smith delegates, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, etc., are not "marching" around the hall, they are rushing around. Heaven help the old, feeble and fat. They must get out of the line and sit down or be walked on.

The band is playing "The Sidewalks of New York." It could not be any other tune. But you hear only a faint rumble from the band, the crowd is rushing around the hall. There are more than five hundred delegates of Al Smith rushing through the crowds above their heads.

A newswriter, face appropriately smeared with printers' ink, is carried aloft. Sailors, admitted to the delegates' floor, are in the procession. It started at 25 minutes to one and an hour or so from now you will know when it begins to disband.

This is a new episode, as though the gate crashers and the wild enthusiasm on the floor had decided, "now we'll sing a new song."

Previous demonstrations were nothing. You can hardly hear the fire engine sirens. You know what a noise they make. The crowd, yelling "Sidewalks of New York" with such fervor and such gusto, can almost hear the words.

Now a brass band, 59 men with brass horns as big as the newsboy, have joined the procession. They are playing "The Sidewalks of New York." That may be the new national anthem, who knows? A man brought from Mars would say so.

THREE ladies from Missouri are moved. They won't smile, that would be liberality to McAdoo, but you can see that this is the loudest noise they ever heard. These three ladies, the sixty-three-year-old young lady, Nathan Strauss, older than the very small girls, and the sixty-three-year-old young lady, Nathan Strauss, older than the very small girls, and the sixty-three-year-old young lady, Nathan Strauss, older than the very small girls.

They are all carried up to the speakers' platform. One has bright red hair, another jet black. Al Smith, you know, has a big family of daughters as well as sons. That is, of course, half of meaning. If the birds could hear him, he'd like it, let them lump it.

DELEGATES opposed to Smith seem to fear the gate-crashers' boys. Every State standard is fairly held by three or four guard-delegates to keep the Smith boys from grabbing it and adding it to the procession.

Those anti-Smith delegates feel as the colored lady did, another jet black. Al Smith, you know, has a big family of daughters as well as sons. That is, of course, half of meaning. If the birds could hear him, he'd like it, let them lump it.

Which, think you, of all the 25,000 men who marched along Fifth avenue this week in New York's great parade, aroused the greatest amount of applause from the hundreds of thousands who lined the sidewalk?

The members of the police force who were decorated with medals for acts of conspicuous bravery.

No. We coward or hero, every mortal takes off our hats to the man who is absolutely unafraid. We have winners, yes, but we admire also game losers.

When John L. Sullivan was knocked out by Jim Corbett, he staggered to his feet, his heart broken and his tears streaming down his face, clutching the ropes and uttering to the crowd:

"I done my best, but he licked me. Gentlemen, there's no question. I've got just one thing to say in this hour of sorrow. Thank God it was an American that done it. Let us sing the first verse and chorus of 'The Star Spangled Banner'."

The crowd, Sullivan remained a hero.

One of the maxims of Napoleon was this:

"A general of ordinary talent acquires a bad position and is surprised by a superior force, seeks safety in retreat; but a great captain supplies all deficiencies by his courage, and marches boldly to meet the attack."

America is the glorious land it is today largely because of its men of courage, the brave pioneers who penetrated the unexplored west, the men who tumbled mountains and built railroads, the men who invaded mountain fastnesses and developed mines in the teeth of the fiercest hardships, the men who, by their splendid enthusiasm, inspired capital to invest in the huge enterprises. Adventurers, many of them, but adventurers who met and conquered adversity.

There were fearful eyes and gulping throats when the brave men of New York's great parade marched past, their breasts decorated in many instances with more than half a dozen medals. The tribute they paid was a tribute to those who paid it.

When I returned to a desk piled with reports on business conditions and newspaper accounts of business and financial happenings, the question kept springing into my mind: "Is American business today showing recovery?"

The conclusion I have reached is that the country is suffering more today from a lack of business courage than from bad business conditions.

Does not reduction reveal that we have been anything at shadow? The trembled over threatened inflation. No inflation came.

Congress was to throw the country into a panic by the most radical of radical legislation. Congress adjourned without accomplishing anything.

Europe was to blow up like a volcano sending tremors all over the world. Europe is now content upon to help us to digest our gloom in the near future.

"First, oil was going to dollar a gallon; then, later, it was going to become worthless. Neither has happened."

The custom is to make resolutions at New Year.

We are about to enter a new half year. The motion is here made that business resolve to show more courage during the second half of the year than it has shown during the first half.

Who seconds the motion?
